

THE Raider

1954

EX LIBRIS

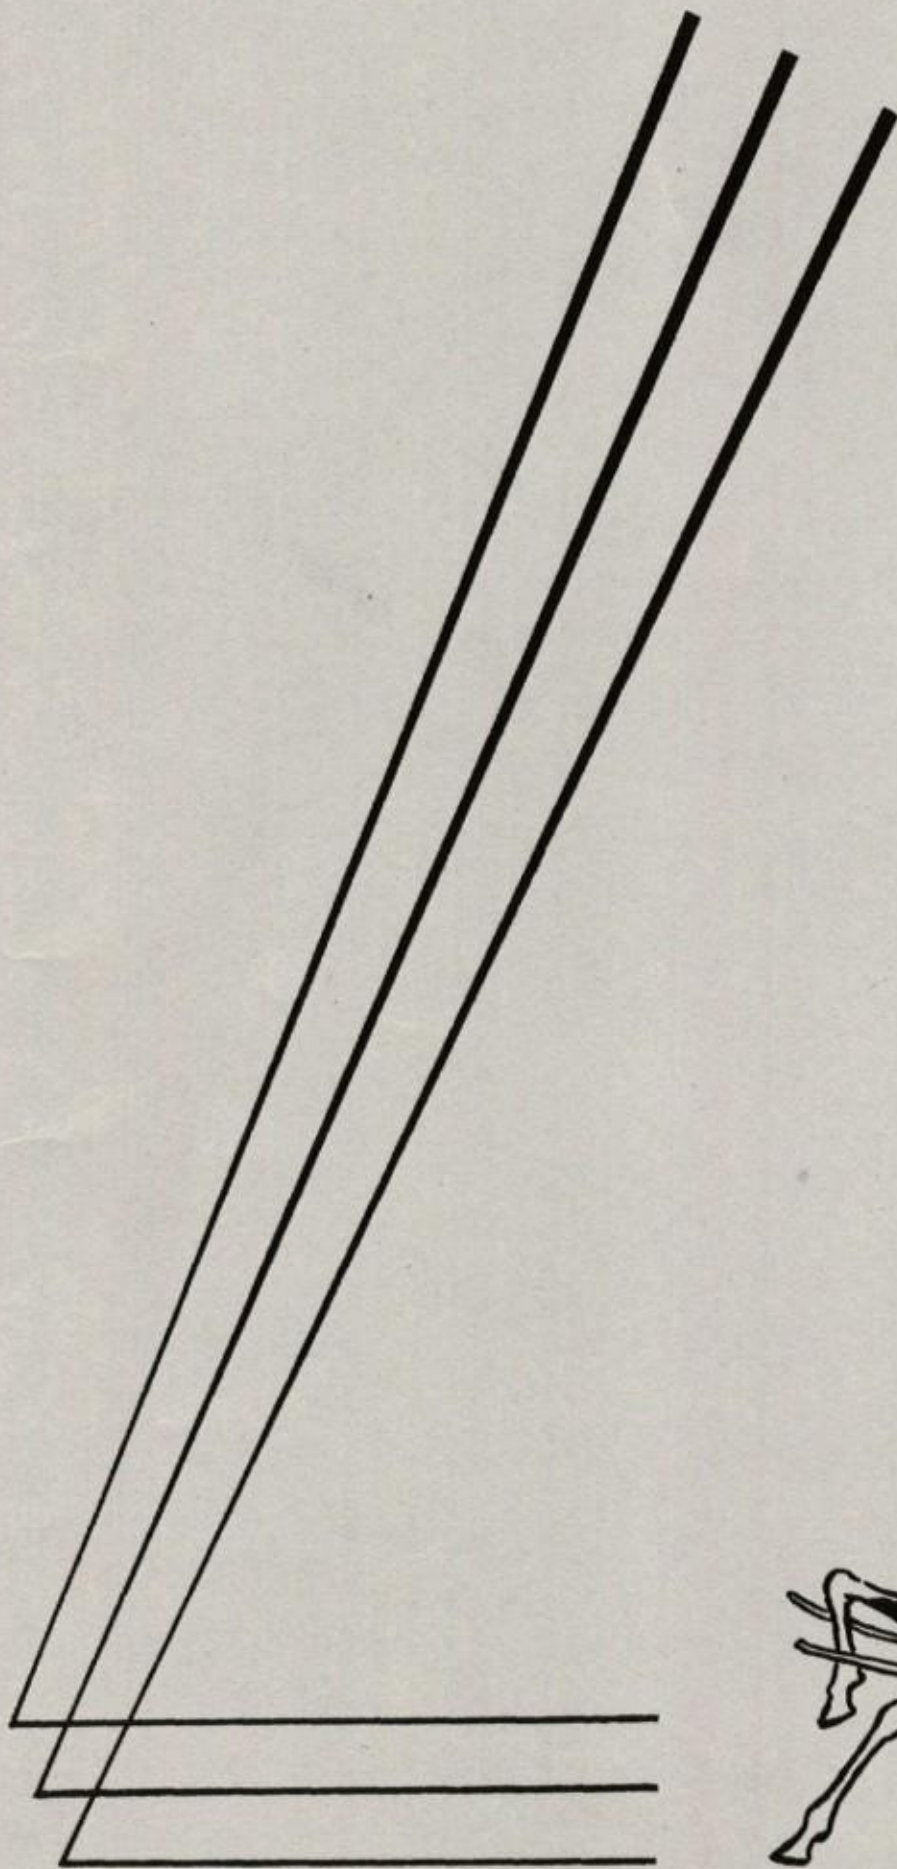

DEDICATION

Each year the problem of finding a suitable and worthy individual to whom the annual may be dedicated looms before the senior class. This year, however, no problem arose because a man who has shown patience and understanding of high school students and their antics for many years was right before their eyes. Since this is the case, the senior class of "54" takes pleasure in dedicating this, the fourth Raider, to their class sponsor and school principal, Mr. C. M. Gillespie.

Wednesday noons will always be in the memories of the senior class of "54".

In the beginning, it was undecided whether they should have an annual; but the class put their whole heart into it and proved that they could have one.

The annual staff would like to thank Mr. Wittmer and Mr. Gillespie who helped them in so many ways; the Waltz Studio, who took the group pictures; and all those who sponsored the pages of the annual.

It is hoped that you will find much enjoyment in this annual in the years to come.

Senior Class History

MEDIEVAL

Now this is a very dry subject, but you must bear with us and get all of the time elements in mind.

We will begin with Medieval history. Back in the dark ages of 1935 and 1936 sixteen sweet little children were being born to fourteen proud sets of parents.

RENAISSANCE

Along about the dawn of the Renaissance the Bunks, Swans, Hauglands, Hip-pens, Latches, Helmkes, Siemens, Pogges, and Kurfmans decided to send their little angels to school to learn to read and write. This was the year 1941 and all of them got along famously. By the second year of attendance Don DeMots joined the group and stayed throughout the ages.

PEOPLES CAFE, Renwick, Iowa

Many great battles were fought throughout these formative years. In the fifth grade Jan took Clair down and sat on him. This is one encounter that will make history forever.

A great scholar entered history along in the sixth grade to march to the head of the class and become valedictorian. This could be none other than Tom Roseberry, better known as Mouse.

EXPLORITORY AGE

As the age of exploration dawned this civilization of "54" graduates found themselves preparing for high school by attending junior high. Two sets of twins--Doris and Dean, then finally Donald and Dorothy joined the camp to push forward into high school. Athletics held an important position throughout this period--the girls won the runner-up trophy in the junior high tournaments both years.

VICTORIAN AGE

The last link of this golden era of personalities was filled by the presence of Roberta Kleveland as the Victorian Age came into existence and high school was finally realized. High school gave these pioneers the opportunity to participate in music, athletics, journalism and to attend high school dances. As this age was drawing to a close the girls made real history by playing in the state tournament in Des Moines.

ATOMIC AGE

The Atomic Age found the nine little lambs who started school together, joined by seven others, to go onto graduation together. They have all enjoyed their school days and sincerely wish that they had a few more golden years left together; but time marches on and it is hoped that in the years to come they will each take their place in the history annals of the world.

Banquet

The theme for this years banquet was "An Evening in Paris." The banquet was held in the dining room which had been decorated to resemble Paris. The east wall was covered with a drawing of the Eiffel Tower which was the center of interest. The north wall was decorated to represent sidewalk cafes and the south wall was a display of French art. The ceiling was covered with blue cheese cloth, which was dotted with silver stars. The bandshell, made of crepe paper, stood against the west wall, and portrayed "Paris the City of Music."

After the banquet the juniors, seniors, faculty, and guests danced to the music of Verne Shaeffer's orchestra.

Looking back on the junior class we find that they have been very active in the extra curricular activities offered at Renwick. Out of the eighteen members of the junior class five boys participated on the football team. There were five girls and four boys on the basketball team.

In the music department ten juniors participated in chorus and band. There were nine girls and four boys active in glee club. Seven of the eighteen juniors were in journalism.

Mrs. Rossman was chosen as sponsor for the class.

Play

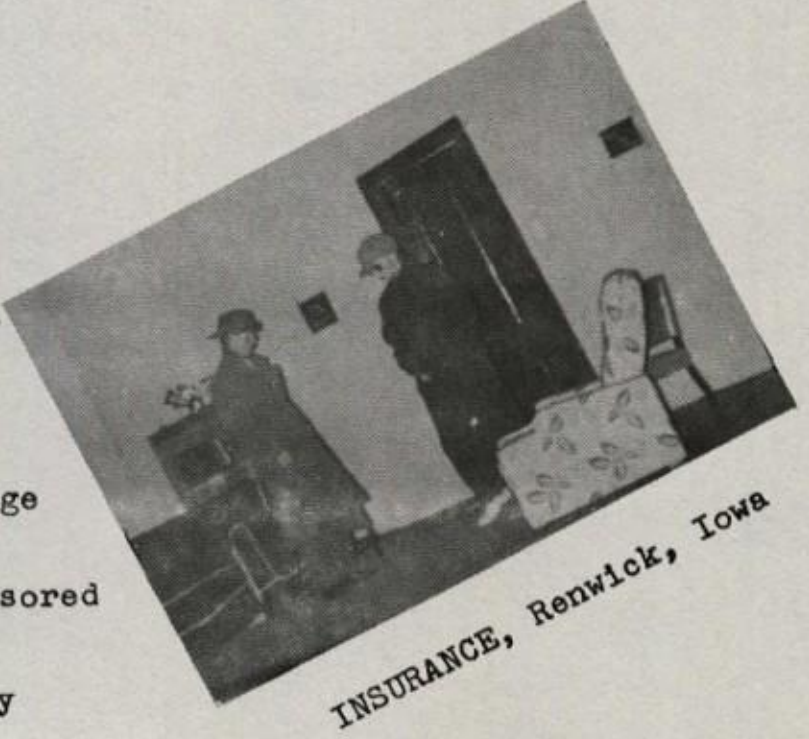

Finders Creepers, a very gay and lively play, was staged by the junior class November 3. This three act play didn't lack anything and kept the audience in suspense and laughter all the time. The characters did an excellent job of acting and portrayed their parts to their fullest extent. Many humorous incidents occurred throughout this production, but everything turned out for the good by the time for the final curtain.

Most of the nineteen members of the sophomore class have been very active in extra curricular activities. In athletics five boys were out for football. There were six girls and four boys who participated in basketball.

The sophomores are found to be eagerly participating in other activities than athletics, also. Eleven of the members were in band and nine were in mixed chorus. One boy and nine girls participated in glee club. Almost all of the class, fourteen to be exact, took an active part in journalistic activities.

Mr. Miller is sponsor of the sophomore class.

Like all the other classes the freshman class has also been very active in extra curricular activities. It is found that there were five boys and one girl who participated in basketball. There were three out for football and one of the freshman boys was manager of the team.

In the other extra curricular activities the freshman were also very active. For instance there were four in band and eight in mixed chorus, and there were four boys and six girls in the glee clubs. Four of the freshman were in the journalism club.

The freshman class chose Mr. Whitney to be their sponsor for this year.

The Renwick girls enjoyed another successful season of basketball. They won their share of the games and provided many thrilling moments for the fans. Their most outstanding game was an overtime victory over Ottosen. When the season came to an end, the girls had won consolation honors at the Little Nine Tourney and had finished in a second place tie in the Boone Valley Conference.

Renwick's school has a large number of students interested in both instrumental and vocal music, a total of 65 participated in the music program for the school year 1953-1954.

A concert band of 45 members enjoyed playing together under the direction of Mr. W. K. Baessler and emerged with a division I rating from the state contest. The marching band performed at the home football games and North Iowa Band Festival, stepping off to snappy marches and novelty numbers led by the drum majorette, Dorothy Harris. At the basketball games the quarters and half-times were livened by the marches the pep band offered. Several small ensembles were an outgrowth of this outstanding organization; they also made a fine showing at the contests. The band and various small ensembles played at the Christmas program, a mid-winter concert, a joint concert with Vernon, and a pre-contest concert.

Vocal music had a mixed chorus, girls glee club, and boys glee club as its nucleus, with a girls trio and sextet as branches. The participants in these organizations enjoyed working with Mrs. Whitney and gave a Christmas concert, spring concert, and a pre-contest concert.

ACTIVITIES

Journalism Club

The Journalism Club was started in 1949 with the English literature class as its staff. This class sent articles into the Renwick Times and soon had a section called the Hi Life. The following fall, since interest in journalistic writing was running rather high, a journalism club was organized. This club included all high school students who wished to participate. This first club had Ed Harris as editor for the Hi Life.

In 1950 the Journalism members decided they should have a paper particularly for the student body so they could tell their jokes and gossip. This paper took the name Radar. The first editor of the Radar was Charles Espe.

This year the club chose Janice Helmke as the editor of the Hi Life with Nancy Latch as assistant editor. Karen McGowan was elected editor for the Radar with Roberta Kleveland as assistant editor.

This year the junior and senior girls started a Future Homemakers of America Club. The club met the first Wednesday of every month during the last period of the day. The meetings began with roll call. The roll call was followed by a business discussion which included talking about projects. Next was the program which was followed by lunch and games. The girls feel that membership in this group has been very useful, because someday they will belong to clubs and they won't be afraid to do their part.

The F. H. A. has had three projects during the past year. Everyone brought in two gifts and wrapped them for the children at the Children's Home in Waverly. A large variety of gifts were brought in. These were put into a big box and shipped to Waverly. On December 19, 1953, the club girls held a Christmas Formal Dance. This dance was considered one of the big events of the year by the club members. The next project that the club decided upon was a Food Fair. This was held March 12, 1954. The fair was a big success and the proceeds went toward the purchase of a food freezer for the Homemaking Department.

If a person were to go down to the kitchen they would find our three cooks. From left to right they are Mrs. Bottleson, Mrs. Kleve, and Mrs. Block. In the fall 1941 Mrs. Block helped organize our lunch program. Soon after, Mrs. Kleve came and in 1944 Mrs. Bottleson joined the cooks. About 230 students eat these nourishing noon meals. The largest number of students fed at a single meal this year was 254. Much equipment has been added to make a modern kitchen and soon there will be enough Hemolite dishes, individual plates and steel ware for everyone.

Miss Engstrom, our very efficient school secretary, has become a very necessary person around the school. One is likely to find her doing almost any task, but the majority of the time a person can find her in the office busily typing, taking telephone calls, and doing the many other jobs so important to a smooth running institution.

Very Important Persons

Each day an average of 232 students ride to and from school on the bus. Five buses have been provided to haul the students. The drivers are Walt Attig, Kenneth Harris, Guy Ballord, Charles Hinkley, and Henry Klassie.

We are very thankful to have Mr. Harris, whose job it is to go around cleaning up after us students. Mr. Harris has been custodian of Renwick School for three years. If you need something like a broom, hammer and nails the first place to go is to the boiler room to find Mr. Harris. In the winter we students would come to a cold school if Mr. Harris wasn't here early in the morning to warm it up for us.
